

POLITICAL PARADE

By CLEM WHITAKER

Most momentous news of the moment, politically, is the proposed CIO-AFL merger!

If it happens, labor's bloody civil war—the costly jurisdictional disputes which have disrupted both private business and the government's defense program—will have ended. But if it happens, organized labor may try to set up a labor government in America.

That is the news behind the news as it emanates from the national capital.

The proposed "peace treaty" between the CIO and AFL, according to Washington advices, was born of a new realization that the strike weapon must be abandoned for "the duration." When Pearl Harbor was bombed, and when developments at other Pacific outposts showed that American boys were needlessly dying for lack of planes, tanks and other war equipment, strikes, jurisdictional disputes and work stoppages, whatever the cause, became suddenly and exceedingly unpopular with the American public.

Sounding the death knell of labor's fight in California to prevent outlawing of the secondary boycott, for example, Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins—always pro-labor in her sympathies—declared in her annual report that labor's use of the secondary boycott is "deemed by the public to be excessive and not in the public interest."

The Secretary of Labor adds "Excessive methods of picketing and demonstration, stoppages of work due to jurisdictional disputes, boycotting of goods produced by the labor of other unions and the secondary boycott, are all practices deemed by the public to be excessive and not in the public interest."

But where does that leave labor? What other weapon can labor employ?

The answer is that labor—if the CIO and AFL forget their differences and merge—will be the most powerful (and certainly the most articulate group) in America! And what does labor want? According to the stories out of Washington, it wants to get control of the offices, bureaus and agencies of government that award defense contracts. By this means, it hopes to enforce the "closed shop" throughout America. By this means, it hopes to make employers toe the mark—even the employers who refused to bow to threats of strikes and secondary boycotts.

Labor has changed its strategy, perhaps; the strike is out—for "the duration." But labor is still on the march and by the end of the war, if the labor chiefs have their way, America will be ruled by a labor government. That is the new objective; that, too, is the motivating power behind the proposed CIO-AFL merger!

Plans for the program for Old Settlers' Day are going ahead under the direction of John Breeding, chairman of the day and a large committee. An entertaining day is promised.

The 22nd falls on Sunday this year and the legal holiday will be the following day, but as the faculty of the schools have to be in San Francisco on that date, the committee decided upon Saturday, and only an afternoon session.

This year's observance of Old Settlers' Day will be held on Saturday with an afternoon program and a play by The Footlighters in the evening.

The players are rehearsing now on a farce in three acts, "The Whole Town's Talking" by John Emerson and Anita Loos. Those taking part are Paul Becker, Mrs. Howard Church, Ida Levenberg, Kenneth McDonnell, Milton Herold, Laverna Hodges, Martha Parr, Ellis Crane, Florence Smith, Merle Knappen and Herold Morton.

Mrs. Ray Wood Will Direct Red Cross Work Here

Mrs. S. B. Smith Is Hostess to Pundita Circle

Pundita Circle met on Jan. 21 at the home of Mrs. Stanley B. Smith, with Mrs. W. C. Thomas, the president, in the chair.

The meeting opened with the salute to the flag. The club voted to give $5.00 from the treasury to the Red Cross aside from individual contributions, the latter amounting to over $11.00.

Mrs. George Smith, Jr., announced that she was opening a class in Red Cross knitting for a group who wished to learn and invited any club members to join with the group.

The hostess, Mrs. Smith, gave a talk on Chemical Science, dealing with vitamins, sulphos and anesthetics.

A. B. Gilson has been absent from the store for some time with a heart condition. He is endeavoring to get into condition to have dental work done to remove the cause of the illness.

Defense Workers Hear McKinnon, County Chairman

At a meeting of the Men's Club of the Congregational Church last Friday evening Supervisor Joseph McKinnon, county defense chairman, was principal guest speaker. He gave a comprehensive resume of the activities of his organization, and set forth plans for further action. He said the Santa Clara county unit is one of the best prepared in the state, and that the Campbell unit is one of the best prepared in the county.

W. H. Van Dyke, chief defense warden locally, and director of first aid classes here, was chairman of the meeting. He introduced subcommittee members Jack Scott, Antone Ferro and others, including precinct wardens for the Campbell area. They acknowledged the introduction by bounding their various precincts.

Following the talks Capt. Lester O'Brien of the San Jose Fire department gave a brief account of fire-fighting tactics as employed by London firemen, and displayed a two-pound thermite-magnesium incendiary bomb. He also gave the best methods of controlling this and other types of incendiaries.

Sound pictures of the bombing of London were shown through the courtesy of the San Jose Fire department by Lieut. James O'Day, and these were followed by a Castle news film, "Bombing of Pearl Harbor," and other news shorts on the war, furnished and projected by Harry Rich.

Previous to the program an excellent dinner was served to members and guests, with George Jeffers as purveyor and chief steward.

Klaude Block, president of the club, was in charge of the entertainment.

Local Defense Preparations

W. H. Van Dyke, coordinator, states that the names will be submitted this week for final approval by the county defense council.

Campbell's sidewalks are lined with boxes and pails waiting for the house to house distribution of sand, which county chairman McKinnon said would be distributed by county trucks, to be used according to instructions against incendiary bombs.

The general woman's guild of the Congregational church will hold its regular meeting in the parlors of the church at 2 p. m., Thursday, Feb. 5. Group 1 will be hostess.

Antidote for Hysteria

It's funny, but it is also serious—this wave of worry in the East over dire things "just sure to happen" to California's cities when the Japs decide to turn loose on us. Dr. A. J. Cloud, president of San Francisco Junior college, returned from the Atlantic seaboard last week to report that California is widely believed to be rife with war scares, with peacetime activity seriously curtailed in our cities.

Food for thought was also provided when California teachers felt obliged to take formal action, as they did in Los Angeles, to give assurance to the nation's teachers that they need not fear coming to San Francisco next month for a convention of the National Association of School Administrators! Eastern hysteria over exaggerated California war perils must not be permitted to ruin the splendid year-round national convention business upon which many businesses and payrolls depend.

The auto clubs, Californians, Inc., the All Year club of Southern California, the State Chamber of Commerce, the Redwood Empire association and all our other civic organizations have a real job to do this year. They need to soothe the East's fevered brow. And California's world-famed resorts and hotels had better get busy, too. A sound advertising and public relations program is the best antidote for this type of hysteria. We aren't suffering from war nerves half as much as our neighbors in the East; but the people of the country won't know it unless we tell 'em!

Last Call!

Last call to last minute payees! Only a few days remain for every California car owner to acquire the indispensable equipment enabling his vehicle to continue running through the year without colliding against an arm of the law. The new equipment, of course, is a license plate from offices of the State Department of Motor Vehicles and a $2.09 revenue stamp from the nearest post-office.

Deadline on the license plates is midnight, Feb. 4, and that of the revenue stamps—they constitute a receipt for the new Federal use tax on all motor vehicles—is set for Feb. 1.

It's only a matter of days and hours till those deadlines, and the penalties for late payment, go into effect. Better settle these accounts today, before they are settled with interest.

Mr. Groundhog

As far as forecasting goes, the Weather Man has been put under the wraps, a fact that places old Mr. Groundhog in the shade come Groundhog Day, Feb. 2. Though established by centuries old custom as the prognosticator of winter weather, Mr. Groundhog, alias the woodchuck, may be forced to ignore the occasion in view of the current ban on forecasting.

Tradition has it that if he sees his shadow on February's second day, "We'll have two winters in the year." Like as not, if Mr. Groundhog sees his shadow this year, he'll have to keep it to himself. We can't see a thoroughly American critter like him giving out information of value to the enemy. If we want to know if we're going to have wintry or sunlit weather between now and April 1, we'll just have to wait—till April 1.

INCOME TAX INFORMATION

To make it easier for taxpayers to meet the increased taxes required by the National Defense Program, the Treasury Department is offering for sale two series of notes, both dated August 1, 1942, and maturing August 1, 1943.

In January of each year two new series will be provided so that a taxpayer can always purchase notes during the entire year in which he is receiving his income for use in payment of taxes due the following year. The reason for the two-year note is to permit a taxpayer, if he so desires, to begin saving in January of one year and continue through that year to save for his taxes due the following year.

All notes are sold at par and accrued interest. When presented in payment of income taxes they will be received at par and accrued interest up to and including the month in which such taxes are paid. Interest will not accrue beyond the maturity of the notes. If not presented in payment of income taxes they will be redeemed for cash under certain specified conditions at the purchase price paid for the notes. In other words, the taxpayer, if he redeems the notes for cash, gets back just the amount he paid.

Complete information on these treasury notes, will be found in a treasury department circular available at local banks, Federal Reserve banks and branches, or Treasury Department, Washington, D. C.

St. Lucy's Club Enjoys Program

St. Lucy's club of Campbell met last week with Mrs. J. Furtado, presiding. Mrs. M. F. Hughes, club historian, read a very interesting report on the formation of the club, tracing its history from its inception at a meeting on Jan. 14, 1937, held at the home of Mrs. Ira Grim.

During the social hour entertainment was furnished by Alice Freitas, violinist, who played "Swing Waltz" and "Down by the Sea." Harold Freitas also played violin solos, "Humoresque" and "Charmaria." Dolores Smith entertained with piano selections "Bells of St. Mary's" and "Aloha." Florine Silva rendered several vocal selections and Mary Alice Grim sang the "Star Spangled Banner."

Refreshments were served in the dining hall, and a large attendance of members and guests were present.

IN PROGRAM OF BALLET RUSSE, FEB. 2

Two Numbers In Ballet Program New to San Jose

"The Magic Swan" and "New Yorker," two numbers never before seen in San Jose will be presented by the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo at the civic auditorium in San Jose, Monday evening, Feb. 2, under the local management of Denny-Watrous. The final ballet on the program is the ever-popular and specially requested "Gaité Parisienne."

"Magic Swan" is a ballet in the old tradition as restaged for modern American audiences. Although it was a very popular ballet in Russia and France it was never presented in America before this season. The great art and technique of the Ballet Russe dancers is exhibited well in this number. Music is by Tchaikowsky.

American tradition, gusto, and humor serve as the theme of the very funny "New Yorker." With music by George Gershwin, characters from the cartoons of great American artists, and action suggested by cafe society antics, this ballet is danced by the leading members of the company, eighteen members of which are native American. New York audiences began laughing at this ballet last season when it was first presented. They are still laughing at it.

The program will end with the famous Can-Can of Offenback music as danced in "Gaité Parisienne." This is the most popular number in the ballet repertoire and has been scheduled for San Jose by popular request. The background is Paris in the last century when all the beaux and belles were flirtatious and light-hearted.

Modern Betsy Ross, Artist in Needlecraft, Makes All Army Flags

Betsy Ross, 1942

The year 1942 marks the 165th anniversary of the adoption of the Stars and Stripes, today a battle-flag proudly carried by American armed forces in every continent on the globe.

In January, 1777, the American people, elated by General Washington's recent victories at Trenton and Princeton, were seeking an emblem for the new nation. The Congress on June 14 following adopted a resolution providing for a flag of 13 alternate red and white stripes with 13 white stars on a blue field. And then the inspiring story of Betsy Ross who made the first Star-Spangled Banner in her little upholstery shop in Arch Street, Philadelphia.

Today the modern Betsy Ross still sews in Philadelphia—any one of hundreds of women skilled in needlecraft. She plies her art in the Philadelphia Quartermaster Depot where all the flags used by the United States Army are made.

Story of Betsy Ross

Betsy Ross was born January 1, 1752, and died January 30, 1836, but it was not until a third of a century after her death that the legend of her handiwork in the making of the first flag became generally known. One of her descendants, W. J. Canby, related the incident before the Historical Society of Pennsylvania in 1870 and since then she has been exalted as a national heroine.

The modern Betsys take keen pride in their work. Many have reached the highest perfection in the art of embroidery, in designing and the blending of colors. Nameless though they are to millions of people who are thrilled by the sight of glorious banners fashioned from their delicate stitches, they are rewarded by the knowledge that the flags they have wrought are today the signals of liberty and freedom amid the fogs of Iceland and in the battlesmoke of the Philippines.

The most stirring sight at the Quartermaster Depot is the making of the flag. After thorough inspection of the cloth to insure that it comes up to rigid specifications, the bunting is marked and cut with an electrically driven cutting machine into strips of two lengths for making the flag. One hundred strips are cut in a single operation. The blue field for the stars is cut in the same manner. The material for stars is stamped out with a steel-cutting die on an electric-driven stamping machine. The alternate red and white stripes are joined together on a double-needle sewing machine.

Each blue bunting field is carefully marked for its stars, and the stars are stitched on with a special machine that produces a zig zag stitch. Other operations complete the making of the flag of the United States.

The blue fields are placed in frames on a machine provided with many needles and these turn out a stitch resembling hand embroidery, both sides alike.

Regimental Standards

Regimental colors and standards, with their coats-of-arms and mottoes, each distinctive unto its own military unit, are embroidered by hand. As many as 30 different shades of silk thread are used in embroidering each flag. This calls for exceptional skill and care to produce the predetermined designs in their exact blending of shades. All designs are passed upon by technical experts in the office of the Quartermaster General.

Proudest moment of the Philadelphia flag makers is when they receive an order for the colors carried as a symbol representing the Commander-in-Chief of the Army and Navy of the United States—the President. This color has a blue background in the center of which is embroidered the seal of the President. There is one white star in each corner of the flag, representing his grade as Commander-in-Chief of the Army and Navy. This color has gold and silver fringe on three sides, and also has a cord and tassel secured immediately below the flagstaff headpiece, consisting of a gold-hued, spread eagle. The design of this flag was established by Executive Order of President Woodrow Wilson on May 29, 1916.

THE BOOK MARK

by marty

"Is Tomorrow Hitler's?" by H. R. Knickerbocker.

You have seen with your own eyes, you have read with your own lips and eyes, time and time again, truths and facts. You have had truths and facts made emphatic for you by the powerful saying "there it is in black and white."

H. R. Knickerbocker has put truths and facts in "black and white" for all of us to read, in his new book.

Let us consider the background of the author for a brief moment. He is a native of Texas. When he was 25 years of age he went to Europe to continue his college work. After having studied briefly at the University of Munich, he walked right into Hitler's Beerhall Putsch. He also studied at Vienna for a short time. Then he got a job in Berlin as foreign correspondent for the New York Evening Post - Philadelphia Public Ledger. Since then he has covered all of the major events in Germany, Russia, Italy, Ethiopia, France, South America, England and China.

He returned to America in 1941 and before writing this book he made a tour of the States in order to more fully understand the American attitude toward the European situation. His lectures consisted of questions and answers and in this book he quotes a question asked him by a member of his audience and then he gives his answer, going into lengthy detail, drawing his material from his own exciting and dangerous experiences.

There are over 200 questions with clear, powerful and revealing answers.

Of course we all have heard practically the same things about other books—"this book is the one to read if you wish to know what is going on in the world"—but take it from your Book Mark, read "Is Tomorrow Hitler's?" and learn for yourself whether tomorrow will be Hitler's or not.

There is a box for books for the soldiers at the What Not library.

In spite of the stormy weather, eight women gathered at the home of Mrs. George Smith on Sunnyoaks avenue, on the afternoon of Jan. 23, to learn the intricacies of knitting. Mrs. Smith has just started a class for the purpose of teaching the art of knitting. The ladies departed, quite pleased with the results of their labors in the first class.

Born: To Mr. and Mrs. Norman Russell Williams, R. F. D. Box 32A, a son, Arthur Norman, Jan. 21, at San Jose hospital.

Luana Smeed Becomes Bride of Peter Cvietkovich

A very lovely wedding was that of Miss Luana Smeed and Peter Thomas Cvietkovich, which was held Saturday evening at 7 o'clock in St. Joseph's church in San Jose.

The bride was charming in her gown of white satin, with train, and a finger tip veil. She carried an arm spray of white roses.

Her sister, Mrs. Jack Williams was her bridesmaid and was gowned in blue taffeta and her flowers were pink roses. The bridegroom was attended by Frank Maroz, a San Jose friend.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Smeed of North Second street for relatives and a few friends. Refreshments were served from a prettily decorated table, with the traditional wedding cake an important feature.

Mrs. Cvietkovich is a graduate of Campbell High school and has completed a nurse's course for which she will take the state board examination in March. She expects to continue her chosen profession for the present when there is such call for qualified nurses on account of the war.

The groom is a son of Mrs. E. Cvietkovich of San Jose and is a representative of the Heinz company with his home in San Jose.

Following a honeymoon which is being spent in a trip up the Redwood highway and in visiting other points, the young people will be located in San Jose for the present.

'Listen to the Mocking'

The song called "Listen to the Mocking Bird" is credited to Richard Milburn, a Negro barber of Philadelphia, who was an excellent bird imitator, particularly of the mocking bird. The Philadelphia Library invited him to give an exhibition. At the meeting Septimus Winner, a skilled musician and publisher, induced Milburn to whistle while he wrote down the notes. In 1855 the song was first published with the frontispiece, "Music by Richard Milburn. Words by Alice Hawthorne. Publisher, Septimus Winner." In later years the publisher received credit for being its originator.

Oranges Have Vitamins

Oranges have an abundance of rich, flavorful juice brimming with vitamins (A, B, C, and G) plus minerals including calcium, phosphorus and iron.

Miss Martha Parr of the What Not lending library is providing a box for the deposit of books that anyone wishes to donate to the collection being made throughout the nation for the soldiers libraries. Another depository is at the Campbell library, where they are collected by the county library.

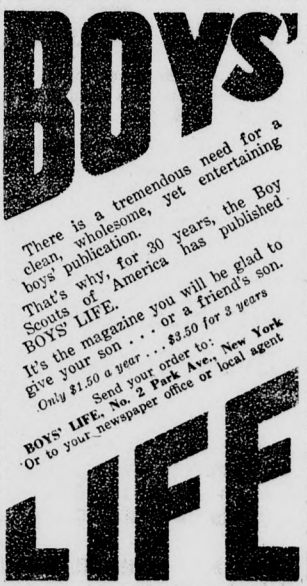

Bertrand Russell

Bertrand Russell, the philosopher, was imprisoned during the World war. After the World war began he took an active part in the "no conscription" movement and was fined as the author of a leaflet describing an early Christian conscientious objector. This led to his being deprived of his lectureship at Trinity college, Cambridge. He was offered a post at Harvard, but was refused a passport. He had intended to give a course of lectures (afterward published in America as "Political Ideals, 1918"), but was prevented by military authorities. In 1918 he was sentenced to six months' imprisonment for an article he had written in the Tribune.

FOR DEFENSE

Follow These Rules and Save Auto Tires

The chances are that you are one of those who will be unable to purchase new tires under the rationing system. If you want to prolong your driving, it is suggested you heed the following rules, prepared by government engineers, for the conservation of tires:

Have your worn tires retreaded in time.

Drive slower. Your tires will last twice as long at 40 miles per hour than at 60 miles per hour.

Inflate tires weekly to recommended levels.

Don't start short or make jack rabbit starts.

Avoid striking curbs, road holes, rocks, etc.

Check wheel alignment twice a year.

Repair all cuts, leaks, and breaks, promptly.

Change wheel positions every 5,000 miles.

Always have the tire fit the rim of your car.

Don't speed around curves.

Also, don't use your car unless you have to. The saving of rubber and fuel will contribute greatly to the winning of the war.

Gardenias

Gardenias do not have to be planted in peat. Leaf mold would be better and the addition of a little very fine sand would aid. If leaf mold is not available would use peat, as it is next best material. They are rank feeders and soil should be one-fourth manure if latter is well rotted. But the most important point is to see that drainage is good.

The FARMERS CORNER

by RALPH H. TAYLOR
Executive Secretary
Agricultural Council of California

A special congressional committee, recognizing that the United States has assumed the colossal obligation of not only equipping our own Army and Navy for total war but also of furnishing "aid of every description to all nations fighting the forces of aggression," has made public a report declaring that America must be "stripped for action" and recommending drastic slashes in non-military expenditures of the government.

Headed by Senator Byrd of Virginia and including in its membership fiscal leaders of both House and Senate and Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, the committee specifically recommended that One Billion, Three Hundred Million Dollars be saved by abolishing the CCC and NYA and by sharply curtailing WPA, farm benefits, and other Federal activities.

The congressional committee, in its report, called on the government to "set the example of economy for the American people who are being asked to pay extremely burdensome taxes."

"Before the war," the report said, "economy in non-essential spending was important. Now it is vital. There is no room for non-essentials in a government stripped for action. Our united purpose is to produce sufficient armament and trained personnel to win this war."

The proposed cuts would slash deep into farm payments and benefits. Agriculture, therefore, if it looked at the program selfishly, and not from the standpoint of the national welfare, might be inclined to oppose the plan on the score that the farmer will be harder hit by the economies than almost any other member of the community.

Affecting agriculture, for example, are the following recommendations of the committee:

Abolish the Farm Security Administration to save $70,500,000 in cash and $120,000,000 in lending authority.

Abolish the farm tenant program, saving $7,122,000 cash and $50,000,000 by cancelling lending power.

Reduce the program for exportation and domestic consumption of agricultural commodities by $100,000,000.

Curtail overhead expenses in the Department of Agriculture by $50,000,000.

Defer farm land purchase program to save $3,000,000.

This writer is not sufficiently familiar with all the facts to venture an opinion on the rightness or soundness of all the cuts proposed, either in agriculture or in other activities, but the farming industry, which has continuously demanded retrenchment in all non-essential expenditures of government, will support a sound economy program to the limit. And every other branch of the community must adopt a similar attitude if the nation is to be able to carry the load of an all-out war effort. If there is no favoritism, there can be no complaining; this is a battle for survival—a battle for our very existence—and it can not be won without tremendous sacrifice.

Every Patriotic American Salutes His Nation's Flag

During the ceremony of hoisting or lowering the Flag, or when the Flag is passing in a parade or in a review, all persons present should face the Flag, stand at attention and salute.

Those present in uniform should render the right hand salute. Those men not in uniform should remove their headress with the right hand and hold it at the left shoulder, the hand being over the heart.

Women should salute by placing the right hand over the heart.

The salute to the Flag in a moving column is rendered as the Flag approaches the spectator and is held until it has passed.

"Ah, Wilderness" To Be Given by College Players

San Jose State college has chosen Eugene O'Neill's famous comedy of American youth "Ah, Wilderness!" for its February dramatic production. Three performances will be given in the college little theater on Feb. 4, 5, 6, at 8:30 p. m.

Under the direction of Theodore Hatlen of the speech faculty, a large cast of students has spent some weeks in rehearsing the difficult character portrayals of the various members of the American family painted by O'Neill. The story of the play presents the activities of an adolescent boy growing up into a world of activity and excitement. His inability to throw off his attitudes of childhood while tackling adult problems furnishes much of the humor of the drama.

In the leading role is Deane Healey. His mother is played by Esther Lacitinalo, and Jack Hume plays the role of the father of the American family.

Other students taking important parts are: Barbara Trelease, Barbara Whittaker, Flada Krom, Mary Kirtley, and Denny Morrissey.

Settings, carrying the picture of the American home in the last generation, are being designed by Wendell Johnson and constructed under the supervision of Peter Mingrone, both of the college faculty.

Tickets for the productions may be reserved by calling Ballard 7800 or addressing the Speech Department of the college.
